2016 Jaclyn Moriarty,

A Tangle of Gold: book 3 of The Colours of Madeleine trilogy. [Young adult fantasy]

Part 14, chapter 3, relates that a note (authored by a still-living Sir Isaac Newton, it will later be revealed) “was pinned to another stack of pages: Here’s the latest on the death of wave/particle duality & of Schrödinger’s cat (ha!) etc, & on new idea that multiple, jostling, invisible universes (each operating according to Newtonian law (!)) is true explanation for quantum weirdness. Madeleine flicked through more loose papers, catching names: John Dalton, Henri Becquerel, Max Planck, Marie Curie, Ada Lovelace, Hugh Everett, Howard Wiseman.” The note (in italics) refers to
